

Balancing Hereditary Factors

There is something which all parents can do to balance negative effects of hereditary factors.

There is no way anyone can give a guarantee, but it will not harm either.

During pregnancy, parents can „pray“ or simply ask for negative effects of hereditary factors on the baby in the mother’s womb to be balanced out, neutralized and brought into a state of Divine Order, according to the Divine Order and the Divine Plan.

This should be done repeatedly over the course of months. There is no number of repetitions recommended, it is about the parents getting the feeling of adding to a beautiful and healthy life for their baby. It can be continued during the first weeks of the baby’s life outside the womb.

This process will ease the baby’s transition from being in the mother’s womb to being outside, in this world. It will become easier, because the baby will then already be used to the loving care of its parents.

Do not imagine your child and do not plan its life in your Mind, it is about providing the energy of positive wishes to the baby and its Soul. The Universe will react upon that.

An important clue to start with: Fearful emotions of the parents should not affect this process. Their fears belong to them, not to their child. If parents project strong fears it can cause damage. So, if parents have big fears, they should work on those with the support of therapies, treatments (please avoid chemical treatments), talking, body work approaches, Soul Communication, Essential Oil Anointments or whatever helps them BEFORE they start with this wishing ritual.

Blessing.

Received from Soul Level through and provided to you by:

Iris Kraml-Weber